The Congressional Budget Office provides the U.S. Congress with the objective, timely, and nonpartisan analyses needed for economic and budgetary decisions. CBO will accept applications from graduate students for its 2021 Summer Internship Program between January 8 and February 26, 2021. The internships will be conducted virtually, though most of CBO’s employees are in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area. Interns contribute to CBO’s work in areas such as climate and the environment, budget and tax policy, health care, national defense, education, retirement assistance, other income assistance, regulation, and public investment.

CBO internships offer:
- Ten weeks of experience in the federal budget process and policymaking,
- Responsibility for specific projects,
- The opportunity to work with experts in economic analysis,
- The opportunity to participate in educational events on Capitol Hill,
- Networking opportunities with budget and policy professionals, and
- Competitive compensation based on academic level and related experience.

Candidates should have some preparation in disciplines related to CBO’s mission. Ideal candidates are in graduate academic programs in the following fields:
- Economics
- Health policy
- Mathematics
- Public policy/public affairs
- Finance
- Statistics

More information is available at https://www.cbo.gov/about/careers/internships.

Please submit a cover letter, a résumé, contact information for references, unofficial transcripts (including an undergraduate transcript if you are a first-year graduate student), and a list of spring coursework at www.cbo.gov/careers.

Selections are based on academic achievement, the relevance of academic work to CBO’s responsibilities, and work experience, and should be completed by early April 2021.
